How it Was Observed in Cincinnati and Elsewhere.

THE LINCOLN CLUB GIVES AN ELAB- after 12 o'clock. As is enstomary, the naval ORATE RECEPTION.

One of the Most Expensive Affairs of the Kind Ever Given in This Country-How the Day Was Observed in Washington and New York.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 2.—The New Year was were ing of whistles and the explosion of firecrackers and the blowing of tin horns. From midnight until 1 o'clock each tried to vie with the other in making the most noise. The good old eustom of paying calls on the first day of the new year has been entirely given up, and there was but little for the femhine half of society to do, while man creation had a good time at the club, business being almost entirely dispeused with.

NEW LINCOLN CLUB HOUSE.

In the way of club entertaiuments the Lincity advocating the principles of the Republiean party, made extra efforts to receive its members. A reception was given from 2:30 to 7 p. m., beautiful invitations having been previously sent out through the postoillee to its members. Feasting was the one important object, and such mi elaborate menu was probably never partaken of before in this city. It was such as only millionaires indulge in.

Of course the large erowd present prevented such a possibility as sitting, and the riches of the collation were served to tho guests standing.

The club had gone to great expense in arranging for the decoration of the large hall in which the spread was made, and such a collection of lovely china and valuable silverware have been rarely looked upon.

The first on the beautiful and artistic menu card was genuine Lynn Haven Bay on the helf-shell, the most delicious of oysters. Seven thousand were secured for the pur-

The nests arrived yesterday.

The piece was a compound dish. The base, forty-two inches long, was ornamented with jelly, representing the sea, from which the royal fish was taken. In it was jellied lobsters, crayfish and prongs. The second dish stood fourteen inches above the first, on four columns. This was thirty-six inches long, and on it rested the salmon. Around were arranged small patties of oysters, clams and shrimps. The oysters were escalloped and fried, all of that splendid brand, the Saddle

New Year's Eve in New York.

New York, Jan. 2.-New Year's eve was celebrated in the castomary moisy and hilarway in this city, Tee streets crowded with boys and gurls. ushered in here by the ringing of bells, toot- men and wamen, blowing tin horns, benting drums and uttering discordant cries. The tumult was especially great in lower Broadway, and around Trinity church, where chimes were played at midnight.

During the evening the usual Methodist watch meetings were held. Herr Most's admirers held a meeting to celebrate the tenth year of his paper, Der Freiheit. Tiose present wore red ribbons and red zecktles, and Herr Most made a red-hot speech, prophesying happier returns of the day in the good Anarchist times of the future.

At midnight all the bells in the city and whistles in the harbor rang and blew, and, everybody that was on the streets shouted welcome to the new year.

THE ANARCHISTS WIN.

A Master in Chaneery Deeldes That They Can Hold Their Meetings.

CHECAGO, Jan. 2 .- Master iu Chancery Windes has made a finding in the Arbeiter Bund case, and reported to Judge Tuley. He holds that the position of the Anarchists when they elaimed that the police had no power to prohibit their meetings was sound, and that the city authorities could not elaim any discretion in the matter, as the right to assemble is a constitutional one, and must be preserved. In the matter of issning an injunction, however, he recommended that the chancelior do not interfere. In the first place, the meeting that the police were to be enjoined from prohibiting was to have been held on December 23, a date that has now gone by, and, secondly, he thought that in cases of this kind the remedy lay at common

It is the rule that chancery courts only have jurisdiction when there is no remedy at common law, or when property rights are in danger of being sacrificed by a delay. None of these elements enter into this ease, in the opinion of the master, as, if the police break up meetings, without eause, they can be muleted in damages, and the only property interest at stake is the rent of the hall, which ean be recovered back. The rule, the master thiuks, is that the police cannot interfero with the meeting until some overt act has been committed, neither can the law give tho Anarchists relief until the city authorities have overridden their rights.

Two steamers worked on the hull throwing four streams the entire night, but left in the morning, although smoke was still issning from the ruins of the steamer. Supervisor Pierce says the Bristol was valued at $500, 000, this valuation including furniture and equipments. The insurance on her amounts to but $300,000, leaving a loss of $200,000. Her hull is of no value, and Mr. Pierce says the old iron, if saved, will not pay the cost of her removal from the dock. The work of removing her will be begun as soon as the insurance inspectors have adjusted the loss. The insurance is held by Boston companies.

Gold Fever Breaks Out in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2 .- An old time mining excitement is in full blast in southern California and Arizona as the result of recent discoveries. Two Mexicans brought into Yuma a large quantity of pure gold, which they said they had obtained in southern California, about one hundred miles from Yuma. They had been prospecting in a locality that was abandoned only recently by hostile Indians, who had kept miners out of the country for some years. The Mexicans said the gold was easily worked, and they would have stayed there longer and brought out more if their provisions had lasted. Their story set everybody in Yuma erazy with the gold fever, and a rush to the new mine has begun. The river boats are crowded, and every possible convoynace is being fitted up to take miners to the diggings.

BOTH KNOCKED OUT.

Mitchell and Kilrain Prevented From Sparring in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Jan. 2.-Mitchell and Kilrain were knocked out last night by a hostile public sentiment, which developed in the form of a detail of police who had instructions to stop the sparring. The laws of Missouri prohibit prize fighting and boxing, but they have been liberally construed for the local pugilists, and a fight to a finish in public twice a week is about the usual average.

A moral wave suddenly swept over the community the moment it was announced that Kilrain and Mitchell would appear here. The newspapers called on the police commissioners to suppress the exhibition, and evidence was forthcoming to the effect that a moh had organized and rioting would result if the pugilists were allowed to appear. The mandate to stop the exhibition was then issued.

Official News From Hayli.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The secretary of state has received a large mail from the United States minister to Hayti, dated December 18, containing information as to the condition of aifairs in that Island, but making no mention of the arrival of the American vessels, Galena and Yantic. Among the dispatches is a copy of the decree issued on the 10th inst. by the Legitime government closing all of the northern ports—St. Mnrc, Gouilres, Port de Paix and Cape linytian to foreign commerce provisionally. The rights of changing ports granted to Grand Saline and Fort Liberty are suppressed. Mention is made in the dispatches of a mysterious crew that arrived at Port-au-Prince on the steamship Arron. There seemed to be evidence of a plot to carry the Haytian Republic out of Port under cover of night, but it was frustrated by the vigorous action of the authorities. Dispatches from Admiral Luce were received at the navy department.

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—All the parties interested in the Lindauer ease were again assembled in Judgo Prendergast's court Monday morning to participate in the final act and closing scene of one of the most remarkable litigations that ever occupied a month's time of several courts. The Ilnal act was nothing less than the offer of a settlement by Lindauer Brothers & Company of forty cents on the dollar, such compromise to extend to the unsecured or merchandise, as well as the judgment creditors. The offer was made in open court and was accepted, and that probably ends the whole business, and there has been much ado about nothing.

The South makes a splendid showing for the past year in the way of industrial enterprises, and it is gratifying to Kentuckiansto know that the Commonwealth stands second in the amount of capital invested.

THE Republicans are not going to have smooth sailing for their Senate tariff bill judging from late reports from the seat of war. "The bill was tramed for campaign purposes," says the Enquirer correspondent, "and answered that purpose very well. Since the election, however, a number of Senators have, it is said, served notice on those having charge of it that they could not vote for the bill unless it is so modified as to meet their views. One of the first was Senator Manderson, and Senator Sherman was not long in declaring his objection. The first was opposed to the reduction in sugar, and the second assured the members of the Tariff Committee that their scheme for making whisky free was totally impracticable. The two Kansas Senators were the next. The interests of their constituents are such, they said, as to make it impossible for them to vote for the bill with its proposed reduction in the sngar schedule. These gentlemen have been reinforced by Senator Stanford, of California. He is quoted as having smid:

"I can not vote for this bill as it stands, and unless there is a radical change made about sugar 1 shall throw what Influence I cau command with the Democrats against the will soon yield. The Democratic Senutors should present a solid front and knock out the Republicans on their own ground.

The Virtues of Celery.

Celery is a delicious vegetable, which has been brought to great excellence of late years, and healing virtues are ascribed to it. One of the latest is that it is a cure for rheumatism; indeed, it is asserted that the disease is impossible if the vegetable be cooked and freely eaten. The fact that it is always put on the table raw prevents its therapeutic powers from being known. The celery should be cut into bits, boiled in water until soft elsewhere. I am no Puritan except for myand the water drank by the patient. Put self,-Howard Crosby in Cincinnati Comnew milk, with a little flour and nutmeg, into a saucepan with the boiled celery, serve it warm with pieces of toast, eat it with potatoes and the painful ailment never produces, but simply develops the of the Roman city. Statistics show that in one year (1876) 2,640 persons died of rheumatism in Great Britain, and every case, it is claimed, might have been cured or prevented by the adoption of the remedy mentioned. At least twothirds of the cases named heart clsease are ascribed to rheumatism and its agonizing ally—gout. Small-pox, so much dreaded, is not half so destructive as rheumatism, which, it is maintained by many physicians, can be prevented by obeying nature's laws in diet. But, if you have incurred it, boiled celery is pronounced unhesitatingly to be a specific. The proper way to eat celery is to have it cooked as a vegetable after the manner above described.

THE DECOLLETE DRESS.

Influence Upon Young Girls Brought Up in Society's Whirl-Rather a Severe Comment on Men Who Attend Some Theatres-A Puritan for Himself Only.

The decellete dress now used by women I will not denouace all the women who wear unfalr. But I do contend that they are all stand how a young glrl, brought up in what ls known as fashionable society and accustomed from her childhood to the appearance of her mother during the evcaing in this outrageous costume, should come to regard the exposure of her arms and the upper part

Perhaps she would never think about the matter at all. But this uncoasclousness on her part does not make the exposure any the less immodest, any more than the unconsclousness of the nativo woman of Africa, who appears in a state of nature and walks about in this nahampered condition, robs her exposure of every immodest characteristic. I suppose this comparison will not be considered a fair one by a great many people.

But If the opportunity which a wealthy American girl has for cultivation and refinement is considered, to say nothing of her Christian training, which should be hers, and can be hers for the asking, is considered, which enable her to distinguish between the modest and the Immodest, these people will, If they are not biased, admit that the comparison has all the elemeats of truth. To my mind, there is very little difference between a poor, uneducated African woman with absolutely no perceptions of right and wrong, appearing stark naked, and a Christlan woman of the Nincteenth century oxposing her breast.

EVIL MINDED MEN.

So much for the immedesty of the ques-tion. Its immerality is attributable partly to the women who wear it, but chiefly to the the Reverend Doctor lu drawing her private life and personal charscleristics threw upon the cauvass in bold ourline a series of pictures which appealed to the deepest e notions of his weeping hearers. Nowadays men often frequent drawing rooms for the same reason that they frequent social peers, it is true, dressed, or rather unwhen they attend a hallet or a spectucle, Then comes the talk of the clubs. The bust, the formation of the arms and the more or less voluptuous curves of the figure, all furnish themes for subsequent comment. The points of a new debutanto are estimated by these men during drawing room conversations, with all the care and skill exhibited by an expert ln horseflesh, where the merlts of a horse are under consideration. And the observations carried away from these drawing rooms are ande ufterwards the subject of club gossip, and form the basis of comparison when the excellencles of rival beauties happen to be mentioned.

If young and innocent girls could but hear the comments and criticisms which are made on their figures by club men around the card rooms and at club windows, and could listen for a moment to the minute analyses which are made of their physical attractions left exposed by reason of the decollete dress, no argument that could possibly be advanced would induce them to continue the wearing of this apparently popular and fashionable gurment. And when I speak of the unlicensed way in which men talk in the club rooms, I am not drawing on my imagination. I was 35 years old before I became a minister. and during that time I had ample opportunities for observation, and it is what I saw and heard which now lurnishes me the hasis

Even if legislative luterference were possible, however, in the matter, any uttempt to exert it would be fooilsh. The folly and indecency of the decollete dress have been pointed out by the press and by the pulpit ever since it has been worn, and nover with any appreciably good effect. I prefer to let the women who wear them severely alone. If people want to live In plg stles let them live there. For one I would not attempt to compel them to live mercial Gazette.

Many Methods of Divination.

Until one makes a careful study of this subject, he cannot have any adequate idea of the extent of its ramifications. An old writer enumerates as many as fifty-three methods of divination, some of which-as sciomancy, or divination by shadows; typomancy, or diviniug by means of the coagulation of cheese, etc. - are obsolete; while others-like chiromancy, or palmistry, oneiromancy, or dream interpretation, and cleromancy, or casting lots-are still in vogue. Many educated men yet attach importance to the predictions of a horoscope. It will be remembered that in the last valume of the "Life of Lord Lytton" is a curious specimen of one the author cast of Lord Beaconsfield, when only Mr. Disraeli. The future life of the great statesman was most accurately predicted, but the brilliant career then foreshadowed appeared so unlikely that Lord Lytton himself seems to have somewhat doubted the fuifillment of his own prophecies. -Now York Commuercial Advertiser.

Justice Should Be for Ail.

The men of wealth, the men who control these great corporations—these great mills give millions away in ostentatious charity. They send missionaries to foreign lands. They endow schools and universities and allow the men who earned the surplus to die in want. I believe in no charity that is founded on robbery. I have no admiration for generous highwaymen or extravagant pirates. At the foundation of charity should be justice. Let these men whom others have made wealthy give something to the workmen-something to those who created their fortunes. This would be one step in the right direction. Do not let it be regarded as charity-let it be regarded as justice.-Robert G. Ingersoll in New York World.

The Age of Locomotives.

The average age of locomotives is about welve years, yet many, through proper habits of living, taking their meals regular and avoiding all intoxicating beverages, attain quite à respectable old age. The oldest running engine in Germany has been on the road since 1845, and is consequently 43 years old-quite a Methuselah, in fact. With regard to its habits, it has always confined itself strictly to water, though it has been addicted to smoking all its life. It is sad to see a locomotivo grown prematurely old by getting on trains and running all night, but they are often met with in collisions.—Texas
